Clamshell Herbs

Sometimes, it's the details that make your meals special. Using fresh herbs can take a recipe from just average to a winner! Not only do fresh herbs have a brighter, "fresher" flavor, they are rich in vitamins and nutrients. Local Roots herbs will stay fresh in your refrigerator for 3-5 days after purchasing. To extend freshness even more, wrap the stems loosely in a damp paper towel and keep refrigerated.

Basil is the exception! Basil is happiest stored at room temperature, with the stems in a jar of water.

Living Plants

Local Roots Living Herbs are grown right in the pots you take home from the store! With a little water and sunshine, these living plants will happily grow in your kitchen, providing fresh herbs whenever you need them. Water your herbs when the top of the soil just starts to feel dry. Overwatering will cause the plant to turn slightly yellow and the leaves may start dropping. Herbs like lots of light – six to eight hours a day is optimal.

Helpful Hint: If you have your plants on a windowsill, turn the pots occasionally, so the plants will receive light on all sides. This will keep your plant growing straight.
